It may be useful to know...

- Chile and Argentina are safe countries but is always good to have some precautions. Always lock the car and take off the radio panel from the car. We are familiar with some "break in" issues in Valparaiso, Viña del Mar, Calama, El Calafate and Bariloche. We recommend parking the car in the underground parking lots, which are located downtown or in a safe place (Paid parking places). Don't say that you were not informed...
- The 4WD – Some Great Wall run with Diesel (Euro-Diesel en Argentina). The 4WD – Nissan Brand, some Great Wall and Suzuki Jimny run with Petrol (Gasolina 95 in Chile - Super in Argentina). The vans run with Petrol (the cheapest 93 in Chile - Super in Argentina), No Diesel! You can run 50 kms with the warning fuel light.
- For Vans only: When you go for a walk, leave your stuff under the bed. That is a hard place to reach in case that someone tries to steal things from the van.
- Remember to turn off the light when you stop the car. It is mandatory to drive with lights switched on, 24/7 in Chile and Argentina.
- You can find Maps at Petrol Station "Copec". You can also download the following apps that offer offline maps: ioverlander.com or maps.me
- If you are going to cross to Argentina, you need a special insurance and a FU form. Please double check your details on the FU document at pick up time. Please give this form back to our agents at drop off time. Extensions can only be made in Chile, before crossing to Argentina.
- Chilean Cops are strict, but they are not going to rip you off. There is a possibility that an Argentinean cop will try to get money from you. (just say, "no entiendo español").

You can camp wild in Chile and Argentina. Both countries are safe to drive and to stay during the night in the countryside such as: National Parks, Truck Drivers rest areas or next to a non-busy road or next to a river or in the middle of the desert where there is no one.

Good tip: Petrol Stations like "Copec" have toilets, showers, free WIFI and you can park the car and sleep.

Hiring a Wicked Campervan is like borrowing a car from a friend, they'd want it back in good condition. Need help at any time, call our roadside assistance number: +56 9 4207 3784
